Prepare both a summary paragraph and a general description of the resource and its various elements as it exists today.

This two-story framed and weatherboarded four-square dwelling faces north onto Charles Street. It was built during the early twentieth century as a house. Its original windows are glazed with six-over-one double-hung sash. It has a hipped roof with a ridgeline that runs perpendicular to the facade. The front face of the roof is interrupted by a hipped dormer. The original facade probably had a two-bay design with an off-center entrance flanked by a bay of paired windows. In association with the dwelling's conversion to a laundromat, the facade has received a brick veneer, and a new central doorway flanked by big plate-glass windows was added. The original one-story front porch was removed. On the sides and rear of this structure, the original weatherboarding has been replaced with vinyl siding.
